ENEMY U-BOATS BUSY OFF EAST COAST; AUSTRALIANS CHECK JAPS ON MALAY

SINGAPORE ADVANCE ENDS QUICKLY AFTER TRANSFER OF AUSSIES

INVADERS HAD THREATENED TO TURN ENTIRE DEFENSE LINE AT MUAR RIVER

By CLYDE A. FARNSWORTH
Associated Press War Editor.

The Australian Imperial force turned back waves of Japanese attackers today in the fierce defense of Singapore, fulcrum of the united nations' defense system in the Southwest Pacific region.

Major General Gordon Bennett, commander of the A. I. F., announced that some of his troops had been sent "to stabilize the position" in the Muar river area, where British Indian troops had fallen back before the attacks.

"Almost immediately after the Australians had taken up positions the enemy launched a vigorous tank attack which was beaten off by our troops. The enemy lost eight tanks," Bennett reported to the Australian army ministry at Melbourne.

"Again this morning—Monday—the enemy attacked again, and again were defeated by our troops. Australians are holding their ground everywhere."

The Maur river zone, about 90 miles northwest of Singapore, had developed as the softest spot of the elastic defense line through Johore state. The Japanese had threatened to turn the entire defense line by infiltrations and direct assaults in that region, near the coast.

With the Japanese still advancing, Malaya's steaming jungle land, which the British had looked upon as a sort of natural Maginot line for Singapore, has taken its place as another outworn defensive concept and the battle for Singapore today became purely a test of fighting men and their weapons.

Some of the fiercest hand-to-hand combat in the history of war was in store, if not already in progress, along the narrowing, fluid line of defense in Johore state, well within 100 miles of the pivotal naval base which the British call their Gibraltar of the Orient.

The British acknowledged a fifteen-mile retreat in Johore's central sector and further Japanese infiltration along the western coast—tacitly admitting that the offensive was between ninety and ninety-five miles of Singapore—while the Japanese claimed a thrust down that same coast to within twenty-five miles of their goal.

BATTLE OF SINGAPORE GROWS MORE CRITICAL DUE TO WITHDRAWALS

JAPANESE ADVANCE REPORTED WITHIN APPROXIMATELY 90 MILES FORTRESS

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Australia's Imperial forces, rushed to the aid of hard-pressed Indian troops in Muar river battle zone northwest of Singapore, were declared today to have stopped the Japanese onrush, beating off almost ceaseless assaults.

"Australians are holding their ground everywhere," Major General Gordin Bennett, commander of the Australian Imperials, reported to War Minister Francis Forde.

Bennett said his troops were "sent to stabilize the position in the Muar river area, where Indian troops have been forced to give ground under enemy pressure.

"Almost immediately after the Australians had taken up positions the enemy launched a vigorous tank attack which was beaten off by our troops," Bennett's report to Army Minister Francis Forde said. "The enemy lost eight tanks.

"Again this morning—Monday—the enemy attacked and attacked again, and again were defeated by our troops. Australians are holding their ground everywhere."

SINGAPORE, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The battle of Singapore entered a more critical phase today as the British acknowledged a further withdrawal along the West Coast of Johore state and reported that the Japanese were hammering heavily at their lines near Segamat, on the Central Malayan railriad 95 miles from Johore Strait.

The withdrawal of the British left flank, in the Muar river area, was carried out, a communique said, to meet the threat of Japanese troops filtering southward along the coast.

The announcement failed to disclose the extent of the British retreat, but it appeared that Japanese forces on the coast must be well within 90 miles of Singapore itself.

INDICATED HITLER PLANNING NEW MOVE IN WAR IN EUROPE

BELIEVED NEW DRIVE WILL COME SOMEWHERE IN MEDITERRANEAN SECTOR

By The Assolcated Press.

Hints and actual circumstantial evidence that Adolf Hitler is plotting a new move, which have appeared from time to time since his Russian offensive was thrown into reverse, were given official axis stamp today although what he has in mind is still obscure.

Meanwhile, the German position in Russia was reported further strained by a major Red army push across frozen Lake Ladoga, aimed at pinching off the Schluesselburg end of the German line fronting Leningrad. Schluesselburg is 25 miles east of that city, second largest in Russia.

The German radio declared that a military convention signed yesterday by Germany, Italy and Japan provided for "proper and appropriate distribution of military forces in preparation for operations of great striking power which will be of outstanding significance."

Speculation, now as before, naturally turns to the Mediterranean zone, newly strengthened by the fact that Hitler's naval chieftain, Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, and Premier Mussolini's chief of naval staff, Admiral Arturo Riccardi, talked high strategy last week at a Bavarian rendezvous.

But the Mediterranean is big.

A move in that region might be against Turkey with the idea of winning control of the entire eastern Mediterranean zone, including the Suez Canal, or through Spain aimed at reducing Gibraltar, or a carrying of the war to West Africa or finally the plainly indicated objective of turning the British offensive in Libya.

Malta Figures Prominently.

In all these possibilities, the strategic position of Malta, the little British island just south of Italy and Sicily, figures prominently and recently stepped up

RUSSIAN AND GERMAN TROOPS BATTLE FOR CITY OF MOZHAISK

RUSSIAN'S GREAT WINTER OFFENSIVE GAINS MOMENTUM ALONG ENTIRE FRONT

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Russian command apparently has opened a major assault across the ice of Lake Ladoga to pinch off the Schluesselburg end of the German line fronting Leningrad, Soviet sources said here today.

Reports from the area of the ice-locked lake fortress of Schlusselberg, 25 miles east of Leningrad, said the battle was "increasing in intensity," and that one particularly sustained attack had carried the Red army past German defenses between Schlusselberg and the Moscow-Leningrad railway. However, the Russians had not yet managed a break-through in force, it was said.

This attack to break German Field Marshal General Ritter Von Leeb's Leningrad front was reported as other Russian advices said Red troops were fighting hand-to-hand in the streets of a burning Mozhaisk, 57 miles west of Moscow, and in Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow.

MOSCOW, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Grim Russian soldiers and Nazi troops comprising the "cream of the German forces" are fighting a desperate hand-to-hand battle in the blazing key city of Mozhaisk, the Russian army newspaper Red Star declared today.

As Russia's great winter offensive gained momentum along the entire front from the Arctic to the Black Sea, Red Star also reported that stubborn street fighting was taking place in another town in the Moscow sector whose name was not given.

Mozhaisk, 57 miles est of Moscow, was the pivot of the German pincer moves against Moscow last fall and the high point of the Nazi advance upon Moscow from the west.

A Red Star writer said that the Germans, in a vain effort to snap the Russian drive, had rushed troops from France to Smolensk, 170 miles west of Mozhaisk, and transported them by air to the front.

But the Germans were compelled to retreat, the writer said, and suffered heavy losses.

(The Moscow radio said the Russians were within 60 miles of Smolensk, where Adolf Hitler was said in Stockholm to have set up headquarters after assuming supreme command of the army.)

In another success, the official Soviet communique announced the

WHERE ACTRESS AND OTHERS DIED

Here is the wrecked fuselage of the luxury airliner which crashed on a mountain near Las Vegas, Nev. The burned body of Film Actress Carole Lombard and 21 others was found in the wreckage.

SHATTERED BODIES OF AIRLINER CRASH BEING BROUGHT OUT

FIFTEEN ARMY FLIERS AND CAROLE LOMBARD, ACTRESS, AMONG 21 LOST

LAS VEGAS, Nev. Jan. 19.—(AP)—The shattered bodies of Actress Carole Lombard and eight other persons among 22 killed in a mountain-top plane crash Friday night lay in a Las Vegas morgue today while men toiled through snow to bring the remaining 13 victims down from the crash scene.

The dead included Miss Lombard and her mother and two other women, the actress' press representative and 15 army fliers, in addition to the pilot and co-pilot.

Recovered from the plane wreckage late yesterday were the remains of two women and seven men.

Wisps of blonde hair "and the general contour of her face" served to enable Edgar J. Mannix, vice president of M-G-M studios, to identify one body as that of Miss Lombard. A three-man jury, conducting a special inquest, decided that she died of injuries suffered in "the crash of a TWA liner en route from Las Vegas to Los Angeles."

Another inquest will be held when all of the bodies have been recovered.

Actor Clark Gable, who flew here upon receiving word of the crash Friday night, remained in seclusion at a hotel. Friends said he was too numbed by the shock of the death of his wife and her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters, and their close friend, studio press agent, Otto Winkler, to talk to anyone. Unable to leave his film duties, Gable last week had asked Winkler to accompany Miss Lombard to Indianapolis where she aided in a sale of defense bonds.

Mexican Ready To Fight Japs; Requested Gun

Sheriff Cap Curington Monday related an incident that shows American attitude in the present conflict.

A local Mexican, not understanding the purpose of Monday's blackout, came to the Sheriff and demanded a gun "to shoot them——Japs," and asserted the Japs would not do us like they had the Chinese.

"I am ready to fight, just give me a gun," the Sheriff quoted the excited Latin-American.

After having the purpose, etc., of the blackout explained to him, the man understood, and said he would comply with that blackout, fight the Japs, or do anything else desired or necessary.

The man was under the impression that Jap planes were due to fly over Corsicana during the darkness

Automobile Stamps Placed on Sale At Postoffice Monday

The Corsicana Post Office has received a consignment of 2,000 federal automobile stamps which are required to be on every automobile in operation by February 1, it was announced today by A. A. Allison, postmaster.

The stamps went on sale at a special window in the post office Monday noon. Price of each stamp will be $2.09 which will pay federal tax up to June 30, 1942, at which time stamps for the next year will go on sale at $5.00 each.

With every stamp sold, postal officials will provide a card on which the owner will report his purchase to the collector of internal revenue at Dallas, giving make of car, type of body, model, and engine number. Responsibility of mailing the card will be entirely that of the purchaser.

The special window opened in the post office will handle automobile stamps as well as defense stamps and bonds. Miss Ethel Fendley will have charge of the sales.

Postmaster Allison requested cooperation of the purchasers by having correct change (no checks) so as to enable the clerk to avoid any unnecessary delays in making change.

The automobile stamps will be transferrable with vehicle.

Postmaster Allison pointed out that stamps are available to other postmasters in the county and requested they order them as soon as possible.

AUSTRALIAN LEADER CALLS ON TROOPS TO ATTACK JAPANESE

GEN. GORDON BENETT DECLARES MUST GO AFTER JAPS AND GET THEM

By C. YATES McDANIEL.

ON THE SOUTHWEST MALAYAN FRONT, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Asserting that the Japanese never can be defeated by playing a waiting game, Australian General Gordon Bennett called upon his men today to wrest the initiative from the invaders by beating them to the punch wherever they try to strike.

"We've got to go out after the Japanese and get them, or else they'll get us," declared Bennett, who is directing the fight for southern Malaya from his headquarters somewhere in Johore.

Full of pride in his Australians for the way they have conducted themselves in their first clashes with the Japanese, Bennett expressed confidence that his men would be able to carry out his plan of action

"In this war as in the last war," he said "the Australians known they are better than the enemy. The Anzacs always assume that no man's land belongs to them, and they are out to take it from the enemy, whether he's German or Japanese."

Bennett's confidence in his men and his strategy, he explained, did not blind him to the dangers and

STANDARD OIL CO. TANKER TORPEDOED OFF NORTH CAROLINA

THIRTEEN SURIVIVORS OF CREW 35 LANDED AT NORFOLK; NO WARNING GIVEN

NORFOLK, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A tanker was torpedoed and sunk off the North Carolina coast yesterday and twenty-two of its thirty-five crew members are presumed lost.

Thirteen survivors of the Standard Oil tanker Allan Jackson, en route to New York, were debarked here and told grim stories of their struggles to escape flames which enveloped the deck and spread rapidly into the oil slick on the water.

Only one lifeboat managed to get away and its occupants reported hearing cries from within the sheet of fire on the water, but were afraid their boat would burn if they moved in to help.

The rescue vessel, which stood by, but as a precautionary measure could not render immediately aid, brought four bodies to port. Six of the survivors were injured.

Details as to the location of the ship when it was torpedoed, the time and the name of the vessel which picked up the survivors were withheld by the naval public relations department for reasons of security.

(The announcement of the sinking was approved for release by the Office of Commander Paul C. Smith, naval press relations officer in Washington.)

The uninjured survivors, who were questioned by naval intelligence officers at the naval operating base, are Rolf Clausen, boatswain; Ross F. Terrell, able seaman; Onis M. May, able seaman; Teague F. Burke, storekeeper; Aracelio Lopez, messman; Elmo E. Burden, oiler, and Jerimah A. Donovan.

The inured at the Marine Hospital are Capt. F. W. Eritchmer, master of the Jackson; Melvin A. Rand, second mate; Boris A. Var-

CHURCHILL PILOTED BIG PASSENGER BOAT PART OF WAY HOME

BRITAIN'S PRIME MINISTER BROUGHT OLD FLYING SKILL TO BEAR ON BIG PLANE

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The saga of Prime Minister Winston Churchill's spectacular visit to Washington was given new color today by the disclosure that he personally had piloted part way across the Atlantic the big 74-passenger flying boat in which he returned to Britain Saturday.

The disclosure was made by Commander J. C. Rogers, captain of the plane, who said the prime minister had banked the giant ship through two sweeping turns after getting the feel of the controls.

Churchill learned to fly before the World War, and caused some concern in parliament during that conflict by risking his life in the air while serving as first lord of the admiralty.

Rogers, who described the Atlantic crossing as uneventful, said the prime minister had displayed "the keenest interest in

AXIS SUBMARINE SINKS TANKER OF ATLANTIC COAST

PHILIPPINE INVADERS GETTING READY FOR ANOTHER SMASH AT DEFENDERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An Axis submarine operating off the North Carolina coast yesterday torpedoed and sank the Standard Oil tanker Allan Jackson to bring to three tankers the toll of undersea boats off the United States Atlantic coast since Wednesday.

The landing of survivors of a torpedoed Panamanian freighter at an east coast Canadian port yesterday indicated that at least a fourth vessel had been sunk in apparent widespread axis submarine forays.

The Navy gave no inkling of its activities against the submarines but President Roosevelt unfolded another step in the nation's long-range plans for victory when he asked congress to provide $28,500,787,495 in appropriations and contract authorizations for Navy, Army and other defense activities for 1942 and 1943.

The President also sent to the senate the nomination of Patrick J. Hurley, who was secretary of war under President Hoover, to be a Brigadier General. His assignment was not revealed but he will not be a line officer, and has left the country under sealed orders.

Knudsen Nominated.

William S. Knudsen, chosen by the President to head the Army's war production and procurement program, was nominated to be a lieutenant general.

The Norfolk, Va., naval operating base said that 13 survivors of the crew of 35 of the tanker were landed by a rescue vessel which also brought four bodies. All licensed officers were injured or lost. Survivors said the submarine gave no warning before loosing its deadly missles, expressing belief two torpedoes hit the tanker.

As the Navy was releasing some details about the Allan Jackson, first reported lost last night, the War Department said ground operations by Japanese troops against American and Filipino troops on Batan peninsula in the Philippines had become of a desultory nature.

General Douglas MacArthur reported that Japanese were seizing harvested crops and food stores and had dispossessed Filipinos of their means of transportation.

The first tanker reported torpedoed went down off Long Island

NUMBER TEXAS CITIES STAGING BLACKOUTS ON MONDAY NIGHT

SOME FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR CITIZENS IN AREAS TO STAGE BLACKOUTS

By The Associated Press

There are dark times ahead—in the dozen or so communities that are staging blackouts tonight (Monday) in Texas.

At Austin the University of Texas campus will be darkened by the throwing of a master switch, officials announced.

All Dallas is ready for tonight's blackout, including Prissie, combination terrier and Chihuahua owned by Mrs. Lillian Korthage.

Prissie has learned to drop to the floor and play dead when someone yells "blackout!"

These final instructions were offered to citizens of the various communities having blackouts tonight:

Don't light matches, smoke, or turn on any lamp except in a room darkened for the blackout period. But don't pull the master switch at your house. Don't turn off your gas at the meter, or turn off pilot lights on appliances. If light from your stove is visible, turn it out.

Don't use flashlights in your house or out side.

Don't drive at all. But if you are caught out, pull over to the curb, turn out your lights, put on your emergency and keep your foot off the foot brake. It lights the tail lamp on your car.

Meanwhile, H. R. Shockley of Gladewater thought up a way to make it difficult for thieves to dispose of any tires they might steal from him.

Shockley found in his store room a branding iron he used on the Lazy S Ranch in South Dakota twelve years ago. He burned the brand on the sidewall of each tire.

WAR ANALYST SEES OUTCRY OF BRITISH OVER FAR EAST SETBACK CAUSED BY PRE-WAR CONDITION

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

British Premier Churchill has returned home from Washington to encounter an angry outcry over the Japanese threat to Singapore, and demands by the press and in the house of commons that there be an expulsion of cabinet ministers and others charged with responsibility for Britain's military weakness.

This situation can scarcely be alleviated by the arrest of Premier U Saw of Burma on a charge of conspiring with the Japs. Were Burma delivered to Nippon it would at once (1) deprive the British of a base from which to strike at the rear of the Japanese attacking Singapore, (2) cut the Burma Road which is China's route for supplies, and (3) give the Japs a grand base for action against the India which they so long has coveted.

Well, it's the Englishman's proud right to damn his own government, and likely the present occasion calls for a spot of dawning. Still, it's given to wonder whether the outburst isn't largely a matter of flogging a dead horse.

That is to say, while inefficiency may exist, the present unpreparedness strikes me as due largely top pre-war lack of foresight which couldn't be remedied after the conflict began. And if that jacket also happens to fit our Uncle Sam, let him put it on and go stand in the corner.

Of course, Britain was terribly unprepared when the European war began. Since that fateful day she has needed every ounce of war material she could get her hands on, either by manufacture or purchase, to keep the empire from tottering.

Great Danger In Europe

The great danger has lain in Europe and not in the Orient. Hitler has been the active menace, while the Japanese threat was only potential until the surprise attack. Is it strange then that Britain chose not to weaken her all too small resources in Europe in order to provide against a Japanese assault which might never materialize?

True, Britain (and the United States) obviously should have been TAKING IT.

Perhaps Columnist Dorothy Thompson is exaggerating when she says, in warning us Americans what to expect in our personal fortunes, that "the war means a complete change in every one of our lives. It means that things we take for granted as ordinary necessities will become, very soon, unobtainable luxuries. We shall have to salvage and reconvert every sort of waste."

But there will certainly be a strong trend in that direction, and we shall be in it almost before we are aware. We shall find ourselves counting the dimes and nickels and cutting out little luxuries and buying less and making old things serve. A time will come when a forgotten pair of stockings found in the bottom of a drawer, or a discarded suit in the back of the closet, will be treasure trove worth celebrating.

Are we down-hearted at the prospect? No. But our souls have not been tried. The tempering process begins now.

SOY BEANS.

The American of today, taking his tomato salad, tomato juice, tomato soup and catsup for granted as a necessary part of his dietary, cannot remember when tomatoes were considered deadly poison. But if his great-grandmother were living, she could. A plant or two was grown in her front yard as a curiosity. The hard, knobby little fruit was called a "love-apple" and no one dared eat it. Anyone who has ever been around tomato plants can see why—they certainly smell queer enough to be considered poisonous.

It took the soybean even longer than the tomato to win a place in American agriculture. The plants were brought here as a garden whim in 1804. By 1898 they had become an agricultural crop worth noticing. Now the United States produces 100,000,000 bushels a year. Soybean oil, cake and meal are turned out with an annual value of almost $45,000,000.

With war on hand, this is a fortunate development. The once humble soybean now appears on the dining room table, feeds the beasts of the field, and is an important raw material for mills and factories. Next year the crop will be still larger, the uses still more diversified.

THE ANTI-CHRISTIANS

Of all the suppressions for which Nazi Germany is responsible, few are more notorious than the attempt to uproot Christianity and revert to paganism. This movement, chiefly associated with the fanatical Alfred Rosenberg, savors both of the horrifying and the fantastic.

It is not, however, unparalleled in history. The Soviets made like attempts to destroy the state church. These seem to have proved unavailing. Now that Stalin is appealing to nationalistic forces against his deadly enemy, he finds that the church still survives and has power to move the Russian masses.

An even more impressive paralliel is that of the French Revolution. That movement's latter days saw a similar effort, the aim being to introduce the worship of the Goddess of Reason. It failed, and soon; it was one of the excesses that helped to bring down the Reign of Terror. Christianity was far too deeply rooted, over a period of many centuries, to be pulled up at one attempt by a group of fanatics, no matter how strongly entrenched in power.

Now we have a second Reign of Terror and a second crusade against Christianity. It is no wild prediction today that this attempt will be as futile and as short-lived as the first.

MINUTE OF PRAYER

The Federated Council of the Churches of Christ in America recommends to all Americans one minute of prayer daily for our success in the war. It suggests 6 p.m. as the time to give the daily minute, or to be reminded of it. Catholics are accustomed to hearing their church bells ring then for the short prayer they call the Angelus. Everyone used to grace before meals will find the moment before dinner convenient either for the addition of a simple prayer or for a moment of silence in which every member of the family makes his own. England has been doing this for more than a year at 9 a.m. Its reminder goes out over the BBC.

It is fitting indeed as Americans sit about their tables, with hot, abundant, nourishing food before them, that they take one minute to think of drawing help from the great Universal Source in their task of winning freedom for all the nations of the earth.

There need be no contradiction in our thinking, in our living, in our integrity, between our love of peace and the necessity for fighting this war. We are fighting it because we value peace freedom and the love of our brother man. We are fighting to prevent a few gangster nations from disturbing the freedom, the peace and the brotherhood of all mankind. Of these aims we must never lose sight for an instant. We shall need all the help possible, human and divine both. One minute a day of conscious union of the human and divine forces is not much. But if everyones gives it, it may prove enough.

RUM DIVERSION.

The present unanimity of our nation might be broken in an unexpected way. By the "demon rum" for instance. An OPM order forbids the use of molasses in rum or other spirituous beverages after Jan. 15. The molasses will be needed to make explosives. There is also talk of turning rum plants into alcohol plants for defense purposes.

Obviously when the government gets into this field there is no telling how far it will go. The OPM is said to be forbidding alcohol now even for anti-freeze solutions and limiting its use for barber and beauty purposes, such as shampoos, hair tonics and perfumes. Alcohol may yet be forbidden entirely for beverages.

All of which makes it more obvious than ever to many of our worried citizens that war is (deleted by censor).

ONE FOR ALL

What if we differed yesterday,
with danger at the door,
We're one and all for one and all,
the family whole once more;
We like to argue this and that and question pro and con,
But trouble finds us one for all and all of us for one.

We'll quarrel some in days of peace
but don't be fooled by that,
Don't think the family's broken
when we knock each other flat
For should some bully come along and strike our youngster small
Before he'd launch a second blow he'd have to fight us all.

We're full of sects and creeds and groups, with notions old and new,
And some like this and some like that and part, as families do;
But though we differ 'mong ourselves, when backed against the wall,
You'll always find us all for one and every one for all.

PLAN CLASSES IN SAFETY ENGINEERING START HERE JAN. 26

R. F. Matthews, special representative of Texas A. and M. College, announced here Saturday that classes in industrial safety engineering will be held in Corsicana, beginning Jan. 26, with Fred V. Blucher as the instructor. Those interested are urged to contact Blucher at the Chamber of Commerce.

The classes are being sponsored by the college and the national committee for the conservation of manpower in defense industries.

The instruction will be held for 12 weeks and is intended for supervisors, foremen and key men in defense and related industries, with high school education or its equivalent in shop experience.

The course will prepare men for leadership in organizing and conducting plant safety programs in an effort to conserve manpower in industries producing materials essential to national defense. The classes will be held at night and will consist of six hours of instruction per week and will deal with practical safety engineering practices and methods. The only cost will be for a textbook.

CONSTRUCTION OF RAISED HIGHWAY IS PLANNED IN SPRING

Construction of 2.2 miles of Highway 287 west of the Trinity river bridge between Corsicana and Palestine at an estimted cost of $105,000 is scheduled this spring, according to an announcement Friday from the office of T. E. Huffman, Dallas, division engineers of the Texas Highway department.

The improvement is calculated to keep the road open to traffic during normal high water which in the past has frequently made it impassable for varying periods. The embankment will be thrown up with state forces after which the WPA will participate in placing a local gravel base to be surfaced with asphalt, the statement revealed.

Improvements in the past have been confined largely to highways forming the military network, but the section to be improved in the Trinity lowlands is not a part of this network. Highway officials, however, do not anticipate any delay in starting and finishing the project. The project demands no critical materials and can be built without a sacrifice to the war effort.

YOU BETTER HURRY

TIME IS GETTING SHORT TO RENEW OR SEND IN YOUR SUBSCRIPTION TO THE

Corsicana Semi-Weekly Light

at the present price of $1.00 a year.

Beginning with February 1st, 1942, there will be a slight increase in the subscription price of the Light as follows:

3 Months 75c
6 Months $1.00
1 Year $1.50

All to be in advance.

This small increase over the present price was made necessary on account of the increased cost of all printing equipment, material and newsprint paper.

To meet the increased cost of production now upon us, and to continue keeping the Semi-Weekly Morning Light to its present high standard, this small change in price was forced upon us.

The same increased cost of production has forced newspapers throughout the nation to make changes in subscription rates, with many new rates for weekly papers being higher than our new rate for a semi-weekly paper. In other words, weekly newspapers are now getting from $1.50 to $2.00 a year, when our price will only be $1.50 a year, with the subscribers to the Light getting twice as many papers a year as those taking weekly papers.

We are glad we will be able to hold our price down to the prices quoted above.

We feel sure our patrons will gladly pay this small increase when their subscriptions expire, or for new subscribers.

The continued high standard and quality of the Light will be made possible by the continued loyalty and patronage of its many thousands of subscribers and patrons, all of which we will appreciate and be very grateful.

The present price of $1.00 a year will prevail throughout the month of January if you desire to take advantage of this price for either renewal or new subscriptions. The limit at this price will be for only one year.

URGE SYSTEMATIC INVESTMENT U. S. BONDS AND STAMPS

MASS MEETING THURSDAY NIGHT HIGH SCHOOL LARGELY ATTENDED

"Americans must stand in an unbroken line as a civilian army of investors in total victory in a total war for total liberty in a land of total blessings," keynoter Tom L. Tyson told the several hundred Corsicana citizens who attended the patriotic rally at the senior high school Thursday night as he concluded the main address.

The meeting was sponsored by the Retail Merchants Stamp and Bond committee, and members of the group and community chairmen of the county organization and others occupied places on the platform during the evening, including Chairman S. J. Miles, Co-Chairman Festus A. Pierce, Secretary R. L. Nix, N. M. Hawkins, S. N. Georgas, and E. M. Polk; Mayor John C. Calhoun, the Rev. E T. Miller, and R. W. Knight all of Corsicana; E. P. Estes of Roane; M. L. Thomas of Mildred, L. B. Bonner of Eureka, Dr. H. C. Russell of Purdon, Carlos D. Berry of Dawson, and others.

Under the direction of Miss Lena Mae McClure and with Miss Erma Weidemann at the piano, the audience participated in a singsong that included such selections as "America", "America the Beautiful," "Old Folks at Home," "God Bless America," and "The Star Spangled Banner." Following the national anthem, Rev. Mr. Miller, pronounced the invocation.

Chairman Miles Presided

Chairman Miles called the meeting to order and then outlined the formation of the city group and presented Co-chairman Pierce who then introduced members of the county committee. He read a telegram from County Chairman F. H. Harvey, Jr., who was unable to attend, and then presented briefly the formation of the local organization and the recent visit to Austin at which Corsicana was represented by the entire membership of its committee.

Discussing some of the factors behind the drive on the sale of Defense Stamps and Bonds, Pierce pointed out over five million persons were engaged in national defense work in January and the number would eventually be trebled, and would also result in a redistribution of payrolls and, population because of the disjointing of normal industrial life. He also pointed out that higher salaries and scarcity of merchandise would result in an accumulation of money and danger of inflation.

The speaker said he did not believe anyone wanted inflation nor did anyone desire direct payroll deductions that would not be an investment for the future. Tracing the history of the calls of the last war which began with three billions and reached eleven billions finally, Pierce pointed out the first call this year was for 56 billion dollars.

He asserted that if the war was prolonged, and most people believed it would be there would not be much left of the American way of life unless as much as possible of the war costs was paid as the struggle progressed.

Systematic Investment.

Pierce told the audience that Treasury Department officials had reported that Americans would finance a large portion of the cost by the regular, systematic investment of at least five per cent of their income in stamps and bonds, but that the response must be immediate or salary deduction laws would be forthcoming and the lowest figure along this line had been ten per cent. He said the retail stroes of the entire nation had been pledged to and were working now on the voluntary plan of action.

Chairman Miles reported the manager of one industrial plant had informed him just prior to the meeting that his workers were 100 per cent for the voluntary investment plan and would back it to the limit.

District Judge Wayne R. Howell was introduced and recalled the statement of Attorney General Gerald C. Mann before the Corsicana Junior Chamber of Commerce that "Americans are not a race but a people," and pointed further that the nation is made up of peoples of all races with like ideals which in its brief history as a nation had so animated the world that millions on other continents in slavery today were looking to the United States and its symbol, the Statue of Liberty, for deliverance.

Judge Howell said the liberties, blessings and privileges enjoyed today had come so cheaply that it required a terrific jolt to made most people appreciate them, but added he believed many had paid a heavy price for freedom and all were willing to pay any price necessary to retain their democratic form of living.

Continuing, the judge said the time had come for most people to make sacrifices and suffer and the five per cent investment for most would not be sufficient and that each individual must help to the limit of his ability. He said he could remember when $100 would equip and maintain an infantryman a month while today it required $300,000 to build a plane controlled by a single youth, and $50,000 for a tank which carried a crew of four to six, but added the machines were needed and if such was the case they must be secured and the voluntary plan was the only democratic way. He added that Americans were trying to do something never done before in all history and that was to pay for a war as it was fought and not put the burden on unborn generations.

Tyson Presented.

He then presented Mr. Tyson as a young man who appreciated the privileges which he enjoyed. In his introduction, the keynote speaker said that although few seemed to realize the fact and many wished it was not so, the nation was engaged in a total war which meant that every citizen was affected by it and engaged in it, and the only goal was a total and complete victory. He said the entrance of the United States had been inevitable and could be foreseen as early as 1935 when Italy invaded Ethiopia despite the shortsightedness of some people in high places.

He insisted there was not room enough in the world for two systems so diametrically opposed as democracy and dictatorships, and traced the growing menace to American ideals and ways of life from 1935 to the entrance of the United States into the conflict, but insisted the combination of the 26 United Nations would carry on to victory the fight for independence and security.

The speaker declared that whatever the costs of the war they must be paid and brought cheers from the audience when he declared the independence of the Filipinos would be restored at some unknown time and the American flag would again be raised over Wake, Guam and Midway, and the sons of the Japanese war lords would rue the day they attacked Pearl Harbor.

Unity of Opinion.

Looking to the future, Mr. Tyson said some readjustments were necessary and had already hit the sensitive American spot the pocketbook, but predicted that taxes levied so far were only a semblance of the calls and demands that would be made before the end of the struggle. He added that while there had been differences of opinion on policies and uses of money in the past, there was a unity of opinion on the matter at present, and January 1942 found a nation of perfect unity engaged in a total war, ready, willing and able to finance the struggle to preserve freedom.

He recalled the statement of early American pioneers to whom freedom was still an aspiration "to this end we pledge our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor." He asserted the voluntary plan had many things to commend it and urged that even the smallest children be taught to save regularly and invest in their own and the nation's security. He also pointed out that in other nations there were no loans but demands—even to the clothing off the bodies of some citizenry.

Tyson also pointed out the investment was good economically and said the stamps and bonds would serve as a cushion later when the rebuilding of the earth was started and after a short postwar boom an economic dislocation would ensue that would cause as great suffering as the war. He insisted the regular investments would be especially helpful to those with average or sub-average incomes. Continuing he said idle men and idle money were the greatest menaces to the American way of life but indicated in a short time there would be no idle men because of the demands of the war program and idle money should not be allowed to exist.

At the conclusion of the address Mr. Pierce thanked those who cooperated in the staging of the rally and urged everyone present to aid in spreading the program.

Annual Birthday Gathering in Kerens Home Most Enjoyable

KERENS, Jan. 17.—(Spl.)—On Thursday of this week some sixteen old friends of Mrs. Robert Tyus received their annual invitation to a spend-the-day party, commemorating her birthday, which falls on January 17th.

The custom begun by accident some years ago has proved so popular that fortunate guests look forward to the event from one year to the next, and unless absolutely unavoidable there is never a vacancy in the ranks. Arriving well before the noon hour, much banter was exchanged between those present, some of whom had not met since the last happy occasion.

At the stroke of twelve places were found at an elongated table which seated the entire party, and a placard on the wall directed each guest to some small duty at serving the elaborate menu, which was attractively grouped on the bountiful board.

Aided also by a colored waitress, a long leisurely meal was consumed, and between the main and desert courses, slips of paper found under each plate which held instructions for some stunt, joke, embarrassing moment, or other mirthful procedures were faithfully obeyed.

After luncheon sewing and knitting for the Red Cross, and other forms of handwork occupied the afternoon hours, spent before an inviting open fire. Instead of presenting the hostess with the usual gifts of other years, guests had pooled their gift money, and bought a well filled defense stamp book which was graciously received.

Present for the enjoyable day were: Mrs. A. L. Bain, Mrs. I. A. Stovall, Mrs. Bob Ford, Mrs. Carrie McKinney, Mrs. E. H. Norton, Mrs. Andrew McClung, Mrs. A. R. Carroll, Mrs. Pat Murphrey, Mrs. B. Washburn, Mrs. W. L. Bain, Mrs. E. C. Hess, Sr., Mrs. Lee Couch, and Mrs. C. W. White.

Constables' Report.

Jess Tyner, constable, Precinct 3, Kerens, earned a total of $839.65 in 1941 and collected $722, according to his annual report recently filed in the district clerk's office.

BOY SCOUTS ASKED COLLECT WASTE OF VARIOUS KINDS HERE

The Boy Scouts of America have been requested by William S. Knudsen, director of the Office of Production Management, to extend their salvage campaign to include the collection of scrap metals, old rubber and other waste materials as well as the waste paper they are now collecting. The Scouts were requested to collect waste paper several months ago but now as a result of this new request their effort will be reorganized so that a more thorough job may be done.

The present plan is to divide the city into districts, each covered by a Troop of Scouts or a Cub Pack who will be responsible for the campaign in their district. Every home is urged to save all their paper. The Scout living living near you will see that it is put to work where it will do the most good.

The telegram sent to the Boy Scouts reads as follows: "I wish to congratulate the Boy Scouts of America on the excellent work they are doing in collecting waste paper and speeding it on its way to war factories. Today the need for other waste materials is as critical as waste paper and I ask the Boy Scouts of America to expand their work to cover the collection of scrap metals, old rubber and other waste materials which can be disposed of locally through waste material dealers. I also ask that the Boy Scouts cooperate with the salvage committees which are being set up in committees across the . Vmauh communities across the country through defense councils."

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN,
Director General, Office of Pro. duction Management.

It is planned to have a salvage committee in each state and one in each community. The committees will not make actual collections but will see to it that the materials collected reach the proper authorities. This is not a short term drive but a continuous project that will be carried on "for the duration." The Boy Scouts are eager to co-operate in the service of their country in any way within their capabilities.

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR PERSONALITY
By VERONICA DENGEL

COSTUME JEWELRY

Costume jewelry can do so much for your "background" dresses—and background dresses can do so much for your costume jewelry! Now, let's figure that out!

The perfect accent for a simple dress.

A striking necklace such as the one worn by Martha Scott of the Warner Bros. Studio, is the perfect accent for a simple crepe dress such as she is wearing. The necklace was designed by Joseff, and the motif in the earrings is the same as that in the necklace. If you wear both earrings and necklace it is important that they match—or harmonize, at least. However, if this necklace were worn with a print dress or one that had considerable trimming of its own—its effect would be lost, wouldn't it? Then that is what we mean when we say that a background dress can do so much for costume jewelry.

On the other hand, a severely plain dress may be unattractive for many women unless it has an accent somewhere. That very "background" dress can be made to look like several different dresses if you use accessories wisely, you know. It becomes a smart afternoon costume when a necklace such as this is added. When collar and cuffs of organdie are worn with it, the dress achieves a crisp, girlish effect; and if the fabric is linen or pique, it is a perfect dress for the efficient office worker. Or color can be added by wearing a jacket in vivid contrast; and a very casual note can be attained with the addition of a scarf. See now, we've gottten quite a nice variety.

The purchase of such a dress is always a good investment; therefore it is not extravangant to spend a little extra than you had planned if it will uy you a better fit, a etter fabric, and more interesting details.

THE WAR TODAY

prepared in the Far East. But all that should have been taken care of before Hitler started the war he had been freely advertising for years, thus giving the Japs their chance.

This seems to suggest that it's time we let the dead bury the dead, and start living in the all-important present and the future. The burning question of the moment isn't whether, the allies should have been prepared but wheather they now are going to split their forces and try to wage full-dress war in Europe and the Far East at the same time.

That's what the critics are urging, but the British and American governments have decided that the only sure road to victory is to smash the manspring of the World War first—and that's Hitler. That doesn't mean reinforcements can't be sent to the Far East, but it may mean that not enough can be spared from Europe to prevent the Japs from overrunning a lot more territory before Germany is beaten and we can take care of Nippon.

Britain's greatest weakness at Singapore is warplanes. Those great soldiers, the Australians, are being asked to fight again without proper air protection, just as they did in Greece and in the hell at Crete.

Will Add Fuel

That naturally will add fuel to the fire of criticism, and raises another issue. It recalls the blunt reproof by J. A. Beasley, labor party member of Australia's advisory war cabinet at the time of the battles of Greece and Crete. He demanded that the Aussies shouldn't be used again without adequate air support, and charged that "there is no fighting spirit in Great Britain." I am reminded, too, that I have a letter from Texas asking if there is any truth in the allegation "that the English always want someone to do their fighting."

Ordinarily I don't see much profit in discussing such controversial topics, but this is one of the times when we might speak up if we have anything to say for our ally. Of course, the answer must be a matter of personal opinion and I can only report observations made during a score of years that I associated with the British in many parts of the world, in peace and in war, at work and at play.

If I am sure of anything it is that Dominion troops aren't sent into action merely because the English don't want to fight. And if Dominion troops have lacked equipment, so has Tommy Atkins of the British Isles—as gallant a soldier as ever went over the top.

Proof? No, I can't prove it, because it could be argued that the great number of acts of heroism I've encountered were deeds of individuals, or small groups of individuals, and weren't representative of Britons as a whole. So I'm just parading the whole population of the British Isles, old and young, who stood up under the awful rain of death that Hitler poured on them from the skies and never even bowed their heads. They didn't ask anyone to take that for them. That's my case for our allies of the British Isles.

TANKER

neoff, third mate; Thomas B. Hutchins, chief engineer; Steaphen Verbonich, radio operator and Randolf H. Larso, able seaman.

The dead were identified as W. A. Hoerle, third engineer; Hamon Brown, seaman; Dimingo Pinerio, fireman, and Carl Z. Webb, oiler.

The navy did not have the home addresses of any of the survivors.

Every licensed officer on the ship was either injured or lost. The tanker was not armed and no attempt was made by the submarine crew to board the craft to take prisoners.

According to the stories told by survivors, an officer on the bridge sighted the first torpedo when it broke water about 150 yards from the tanker. A desperate effort was made to avoid the torpedo, but it crashed into the vessel about amidship. No one saw the second torpedo, but a second terrific explosion was heard within a couple of minutes after the first crash.

The tanker apparently gave way in the center, with the bow listing to starboard and the stern to port. Only one lifeboat managed to get away as the ship caught fire immediately and the flames enveloped the entire deck and rapidly spread into the oil slick on the water.

The seven uninjured survivors were in the lifeboat and they had several narrow escapes before getting clear of the ship. The propeller was still turning as the tanker settled and it set up a suction that threatened to pull the boat to destruction despite the efforts of the occupants.

After a struggle of minutes which seemed like hours, the lifeboat got clear and a short time later it picked up the radio operator.

Once clear of the tanker, the boat crew faced another peril in the burning oil slick appeared to be closing in on them. Some of the survivors reported hearing cries from within the sheet of flame on the water, but they could not take the boat in for fear it would catch fire. They also reported seeing a light, presumably on the submarine, off in the distance, but they could not see anything of her superstructure.

Picked Up In Three Hours.

After about an hour in the boat, they were all clear of the fire and rigged their sail. Some three hours later, they sighted a vessel which picked them up, but the ship apparently was wary and it was two hours after this before they were taken aboard.

After occupants of the boat were taken aboard, the vessel picked up Capt. Kritchmer, who was swimming with only a small board to help hold him up. He had been in the water six hours and suffered and arm injury and exposure.

Later they picked up the second and third mates, who were hanging to pieces of wreckages. The fourth mate, who was also on the same board, had died and slipped under the water a short time before.

As far as could be learned, no other survivors were picked up.

difficulties created by Japanese infiltration methods. He indicated, however, that the sharp blows already dealt by the Australians, the arrival of fresh British troops in the line and increasing support from the RAF had made him optimistic.

Bennett's optimistism was reflected by the officers and men under him. Everybody I met was volubly enthusiastic "because now we're taking a real crack at the Japs."

En route from Singapore to the front I saw many convoys of trucks loaded with troops moving northward, and all the men were in high spirits. Many were singing, and the sides of their trucks were chalked with such slogans as "Tokyo Express."

YOUR FEDERAL INCOME TAX

No. 11
RETURNS OF INCOME OF DECEDENTS

A return is required to be filed for a deceased individual if the gross income to the date of death is $750 or over, and the individual was single, or married and not living with husband or wife for any part of the taxable year, or if the gross income to the date of death is equal to, or in excess of the credit for personal exemption (not including credit as head of family or for dependents), and the individual was married and living with husband or wife for all or any part of the taxable year. The return for a decedent must include all items of income and deductions accrued up to the date of death, regardless of the fact that the decedent may have kept his books on a cash receipts and disbursement basis or did not keep books.

The income return of a decedent for the year in which he died is considered a return for 12 months and not for a fractional part of a year, and is due on the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year during which the decedent died. After his appointment and qualification, an executor or administrator may immediately file a return for the decedent without waiting for the close of the taxable year.

No. 12
TIME FOR FILING RETURNS OF INDIVIDUALS

In come tax returns of citizens are required by law to be made on or before the 15th day of the third month following the close of the taxable year, which for most individuals is the calendar year. Since March 15, 1942, will fall on a Sunday, such returns for the calendar year 1941 must be filed on or before midnight of Monday, March 16, 1942.

Returns by nonresident alien individuals must be made on or before the 15th day of the sixth month after the close of the fiscal year, or on or before June 15, 1942, for the calendar year 1941.

If placed in the mail, the returns should be posted in ample time to reach the collector's office, under ordinary handling of the mails, on or before the due date. The envelope should bear proper postage and be addressed to the "Collector of Internal Revenue" at the correct address in the district where the taxpayer's legal residence or principal place of business is located. If he has neither, the return should be mailed to the Collector of Internal Revenue at Baltimore, Md.

The regulations grant an extension of time for filing returns of income up to and including the 15th day of the six month following the close of the taxable year, in the case of American citizens residing or traveling abroad, including persons in the military or naval service on duty outside the United States. In all such cases an affidavit is required to be attached to the return stating the cause of the delay in filing, and taxpayers who take advantage of this extension of time will be charged with interest at the rate of 6 percent per annum on the first installment of the tax from the original due date until paid.

No. 13
RETURNS OF INCOME OF MINORS

An individual, although a minor, who is single, or is married and not living with husband or wife for any part of the taxable year, is required to render a return of income if he has a gross income of his own of $850 or over for the taxable year. If the aggregate gross income of such minor from any property which he possesses, and from any funds held in trust for him by a trustee or guardian, and from his earnings which belong to him is $750, a return, as in the case of any other individual, must be made by him or for him by his guardian, or other person charged with the care of his person or property. If under the laws of the State the earnings of the minor belong to the minor, such earnings, regardless of amount, are not required to be included in the return of the parent. In the absence of proof to the contrary, a parent will be assumed to have the legal right to the earnings of the minor and must include them in his return.

When a minor is married and living with his spouse for the entire taxable year, and each has income and their combined gross income is $1,500 or over they must each make a return or file a joint return. If only one has income and his gross income is $1,500 or over, only that one is required to make a return.

Where a minor is married and living with his spouse for only part of the taxable year, and each has income and their combined gross income is $1,500 or over, or equal to, or in excess of, their total personal exemption (not including credit as head of family or for dependents), they must each make a return or file a joint return. If only one has income and his gross income is $1,500 or over, or equal to, or in excess of, his personal exemption (not including credit as head of a family or for dependents), only that one is required to file a return.

speak of any withdrawal in the central sector along the railway to Singapore, it was the first time that Segamat had been mentioned in official dispatches.

Segamat is about 15 miles southeast of Gemas, which fell into Japanese hands last week.

Announcement of the new reverses came in the face of reports from the front of stiffening British resistance and despite a general air of confidence.

Official quarters were silent on the question of whether air reinforcements had come to the defense of Singapore, but reported that the RAF had heavily attacked Japanese transports on roads in the Muar sector and had bombed and machine gunned barges off the coast.

GENERAL WAR

Wednesday, and the second Thursday.

As Thick As Catfish.

The survivors from the Panamanian boat, who were landed in Canada, said submarines were "almost as thick as catfish" in the waters where they were attacked.

The seven survivors all suffered from injuries or frostbite and one died shortly after arrival. The fate of 30 other crew members was unknown. Two Americans were among those rescued, and they said two other Americans had perished in the lifeboat in which they tossed in heavy seas for three days. They said a submarine fired on them when they signaled to it for help.

As the Navy searched from sky and sea for a trace of the east coast marauders, the Japanese invaders in the Philippines were regrouping their heavily superior forces for yet another smash at the battle-tried little band of troops that has kept the Stars and Stripes flying over the Batan peninsula.

Respite For Americans.

For the moment General Douglas A. MacArthur had a respite. War Department's communiques Sunday told of diminished enemy pressure, followed by repeated reconnaissance thrusts designed to feel out the strength of the American lines.

The American-Filipino troops, well schooled by six weeks of fierce combat, seized the opportunity for a successful series of brisk skirmishes which won back previously lost positions that evidently were of some importance.

Despite yesterday's favorable operations, which included the shooting down of four more enemy warcraft, the situation in the Philippines obviously was progressively deteriorating. Since MacArthur took to the peninsula more than two weeks ago to open his last stand, the relentless Japanese pressure of superior manpower has forced him back 25 miles, even though every enemy assault has been repulsed with severe losses.

Can't Continue Retreat.

The War Department hinted yesterday at what lies ahead when it mentioned the sharp skirmishing to regain lost American positions. These positions apparently were of purely local value, but the necessity of their recapture carried a reminder that MacArthur is reaching the point where he cannot continue falling back from strong positions to positions just as strong. And there is no replenishing the dwindling ammunition, no sign of reinforcements for the thinning ranks.

Moreover, for all the Sabbath lull, there was evidence of Japanese impatience to conclude the Philippine adventure victoriously with a minimum of additional delay, even though the costs may run somewhat higher. A big bulk of the Imperial army and navy forces employed in the Luzon theatre could be used with heavy, if not decisive advantage, on the Malaya and Netherlands Indies front where the loot promises to be far richer.

"Old Contemptibles."

Japan, one military observer remarked, must be aware she cannot afford to have MacArthur's men emerge in a role analagous to that of World War I's "old contemptibles"—The original British expeditionary force whose resistance did much to dislocate the Germans initial timing in France and paved the way for the "miracle of the Marne." MacArthur's troops already have a strong claim to the "contemptible" tradition, for they have diverted a sizeable portion of enemy front-line strength and upset his timetable.

The fruits of MacArthur's skillful stand were apparent on the Malay peninsula and in the Indies.

The Japanese offensive toward Singapore, although still gaining ground, was encountering the stiffened land and air resistance which was made possible, in part, by the time which MacArthur's unbeaten army had purchased.

MacArthur's Work Valuable.

Similarly in the Indies. While there was considerable enemy air activity in sections of the Indies, MacArthur was keeping valuable enemy aircraft occupied elsewhere, and Japanese troops that might have been exploiting the footholds gained on Celebes and Borneo were busy in the jungles and mountainsides of the Batan peninsula.

And the necessity of supporting the the Philippines operations with naval units left so many less war vessels available to hunt for U. S. submarines which have been increasingly active in Asiatic waters. The Navy department announced Saturday night that one American "pig-boat" had sent three Japanese merchantment to the bottom "off Tokyo," thus carrying the seawar into the front yard of the Son of Heaven, 5,200 miles from San Francisco.

PLANE CRASH

er, to be held probably Wednesday or Thursday.

Deputy Coroner Jack Larry said it might not be possible to complete the task of removing the bodies from the remote peak, 55 miles southwest of here, and of identifying them, until tomorrow.

The plane, traveling at an altitude of 8,700 feet and apparently at full cruising speed, flew straight into a sheer, snow-based granite cliff, and then burst into flames. It struck with an impact so great that its nose was imbedded in the solid rock and its 70-foot length was telescoped into a 10-foot mass.

Voluntary Work Praised.

At Los Angeles, Harold N. Graves, assistant to the secretary of the treasury, praised Miss Lombard's voluntary work in the interest of national defense and said, "She died while in the service of her country just as surely as did the soldiers who crashed with her."

The 32-year old star was one of the most popular figures on the screen. Before marrying Gable, she had divorced Actor William Powell. She recently completed a film with Jack Benny. The comedian cancelled his radio program yesterday.

The pilot and co-pilot were Capt. Wayne Williams of Reseda, Calif., and Morgan A. Gillette of Los Angeles.

Brothers Ferry Pilots.

Among the 15 army fliers, ferry pilots en route to California for new assignments, were two brothers, Sergeants Edgar Nygren, 25, and Robert Nygren, 20, of Summit, Pa.

The other victims:

Second Lieut. James C. Barham, Waco, Texas; Second Lieut. Steward L. Swenson, Long Beach, Calif.; First Lieut. Robert E. Crouch, Mount Washington, Ky; Second Lieut. Charles D. Nelson, St. Cloud, Minn.; First Lieut. Hal Browne, Jr., Long Beach, Calif.; Second Lieut. Kenneth P. Donahue, Stoughton, Mass.; Second Lieut. Frederick J. Dittman, Oakland, Calif.; Private Nicholas Varsamine, Bronx, N. Y.; Staff Sergeant David C. Tilghman, Snow Till, Md.; Sergt. Frederick P. Cook, Reidsville, N. C.; Private First Class Martin W. Tellkamp, Lamoille, Ill.; Corporal Milton B. Affrime, Philadelphia; Sergt. Albert M. Belejchak, Braddock, Pa.

TEXAS AT WAR

Spencer Tracy, a close friend of the actor, drove alone to Las Vegas Saturday and was expected to accompany him back to Hollywood. Studio officials in Los Angeles were making arrangements for a double funeral for Miss Lombard and her mothnomic Geology, university officials announced here today.

Used in the manufacture of flares and other types of bright burning light, the strontium mineral is of high grade and present in quantities large enough for commercial exploitation, Dr. E. H. Sellards, bureau director, asserted.

The WPA mineralogical survey co-operated with the bureau in the survey.

The westward dipping celestite stratum outcrops for forty to fifty miles across Nolan County in an exposed width of six inches to a foot, Dr. Sellards said.

Small shipments of the mineral have been made since the bureau began work there. Found with the celestite were sizeable quantities of dolomite needed for aluminum production, but the quality of this mineral has not yet been ascertained, he stated.

INTERNATIONAL

Soon, but no one knew when nor where, the British imperials must make their final stand if the Japanese thrust is halted short of Johore Strait. This is the water hazard which in the final analysis shields Singapore island with its invaluable naval installations.

Whoever is to hold Singapore may well control the course of the war in the Southwest Pacific.

In the Burma zone, north of Malaya, the British announced they had withdrawn from a southern port, Tavoy, just across from Japanese-occupied Thailand, before superior Japanese forces facing the Imperials.

The Rangoon communique added that the Japanese were believed already to have based fighter planes on Tavoy.

Dutch Are Silent.

The official silence of the Dutch on land action indicated that the Japanese offensive from footholds gained in the Netherlands East Indies was marking time, pending outcome of the battle for Singapore.

However, the Dutch did report Japanese air raids on the Borneo oil port of Balik Papan and on the island of Sabang, off the northern tip of Sumatra. A lightship near Balik Papan was damaged when nine Japanese bombers swooped in with an escort of six fighters.

The Sabang raid, by three planes, caused no damage, the Dutch communique said.

A previously announced air attack on an airdrome in Middle Sumatra was said, after final tabulation, to have caused nine deaths and forty-one casualties.

Unofficial, the Dutch presumed that land fighting for opossession of Minahassa, northeastern arm of the Celebes, was still under way.

A civilian who left Menado, capital of the province, before the Japanese landing near there a little more than a week ago, said the Dutch had completed preparations for a "scorched earth" retreat if necessary.

The newest report from the vast and complicated Chinese-Japanese war front, a Chungking communique, said that the Japanese had suffered 3,000 casualties, including the death of a brigade commander, in recent operations in the Northern Kiangsi province.

Statements Fail Coincide.

In the face of a Tokyo declaration that the battle with Gen. Douglas MacArthur's forces for possession of Batan Peninsula, Luzon, was near a decisive stage, the war department in Washington announced that operations were in the doldrums.

A Domei dispatch admitted the stubbornness of the American-Filipino resistance, saying that strong barricades across jungle paths and enfilading fire from hidden artillery had held the Japanese advance to "but a few meters per hours."

Said the Washington communique:

"Ground operations during the past twenty-four hours were of a desultory nature. Eenemy patrols were active and some incidental skirmishes took place with indecisive results.

"Enemy air activities were confined to frequent reconnaissance flights."

Gravely disturbed by the progress of the Japanese drive down through Malaya—an advance of 250 miles in six weeks—London's critics of the Churchill government demanded immediate parliamentary debate on Asiatic reverses.

The prime minister may make war strategy statement next week. He returned from conferences in Washington and Ottawa only Saturday.

All-Day Conferences.

Churchill was reported engaged all day in conferences foreshadowing some changes in the war organization, but most London quarters were now agreed that no shakeup in the cabinet itself was imminent.

A liberal member of parliament, Edgar Louis Granville, served notice he would move at the next sitting of commons for adjournment "to discuss the urgent state of affairs with regard to the defense of Singapore and Malaya."

The Japanese threw troops at the Pownall line sector held by the Australians in Johore state some 110 miles north of Singapore and attempted their now familiar flanking landings on the Western Johore coast.

Domei, Japanese news agency, broadcast from Tokyo a report that the Japanese had captured Pontian Besar, twenty-five miles from Singapore.

But the zealously fighting Australians and British said they had smashed landing parties on the West Malayan coast and were keeping up a continuous resistance to the land attacks.

It was jungle warfare by separate groups instead of massed battles like those of Russia and Africa and the Japanese were finding the Australians tough customers indeed.

Got to Go Out After Japs.

In what virtually amounted to an order of the day, Major General Gordan Bennett, leader of the jungle-trained and high-spirited Australians, told his men that "we've got to go out after the Japanese and get them or else they'll get us."

He discarded any thought of a waiting game and called for aggressiveness.

His artillery pounded the Japanese in the sector where between 800 and 1,000 Japanese were killed in an Australian ambush last week.

Along the coast, Australians helped an Indian force mop up the Japanese who gained a temporary foothold at the mouth of the Muar River, ninety miles northwest of Singapore Island, the combined forces destroying eight enemy tanks and sending the remnants of the Japanese force hunting for cover in the rubber trees.

Singapore itself took a beating from Japanese planes Sunday.

The British acknowledged for the first time that raiders damaged the naval base area, setting fire to fuel oil.

Headquarters Damaged.

The Japanese in Tokyo said their bombs had damaged the headquarters of the British Far Eastern command.

The British called up more men to defend Singapore.

All European male Britons under 45 not already serving in the fighting forces were ordered to register Wednesday for military duty.

A gallant band of Americans and Filipinos was contributing materially to the united nations defense of Singapore and the Netherlands East Indies by holding in check a large army of Japanese on Luzon Island, but there seemed no doubt that its situation was deteriorating.

In two weeks, relentless Japanese pressure has forced the men of Gen. Douglas MacArthur back twenty miles on the Batan Peninsula, even though at tremendous cost to the invaders.

The war department reported yesterday Gen. MacArthur won back some previously lost positions. But there were signs that the Japanese were grouping their preponderant strength for a fresh offensive against the MacArthur army to defeat it as soon as possible and press on to richer fields.

Burma Premier Arrested.

While the British stiffened their defense of Southern Malaya and Singapore, they looked also to the protection of Burma and announced the arrest of Premier U Saw for plotting with the Japanese.

An announcement from Prime Minister Churchill's residence in London said that the premier, who left London last November in anger after failing to obtain dominion status for his country, indicated the arrest of the premier had balked a conspiracy to hand over Burma to the Japanese.

The statement said U Saw admitted he had been "in contact" with the Japanese since the war began in the Pacific and that he would not be permitted to return to Burma.

Where the premier was seized was not divulged, but it might have been in Cairo, Egypt. He left Lisbon Jan. 3 by plane for Cairo and has not been reported since.

Burma, lying between Japanese-occupied Thailand and India, is being used by the British for air bases for planes attacking the Japanese on the Malay Peninsula. Burma also is the starting point of the famous supply road to China.

EUROPEAN WAR

aerial pounding of that island has underscored the likelihood that an offensive there, perhaps in the style of the battle for Crete, stands high on the axis order of business.

A high British officer, just returned to London from Malta, said that the axis air attacks were "stoking up a little bit" but that the defenders were putting the hard-learned lessons of Crete to good use.

Perhaps significantly, he would not say whether he regarded Malta's air defenses as adequate, but he asserted that they were strong enough to exact a high price for any attempt at landing in Malta.

Malta, under air alarm more than 1,000 times in this war so far, has shown a capacity for absorbing tremendous, closely based aerial blows. The shore of Sicily is only 60 miles away.

Air Attacks Continue.

The Italians announced today that despite adverse weather, the German air force yesterday continued attacks against "military obectives and airdromes of Malta." It was noteworthy, perhaps that the Italians claimed no Malta attacks by their own planes.

The Italian high command in fact was getting another shakeup. The replacement of General Mario Roatta as army chief of staff by General Vittorio Ambrosio, alterto commander of the Eleventh army, was announced in Rome.

This may be part of the aftermath of the British Imperial reduction of German-Italian holdout forces at Halfaya Pass, Bardia and Salum along the Egyptian-Libyan border.

The British announced their capture of the axis positions, along with about 14,000 German and Italian soldiers and considerable war materials, was accomplished with the loss of fewer than 100 killed and 400 wounded out of the combined forces of British Imperial troops, Free French and Poles.

Mark Time in West.

Some 300 miles to the west of the Halfaya area, the allied offensive was marking time in the El Agheila region, at the inner curve of the Gulf of Sirte, where German General Erwin Rommel's forces have been making a stand on the road to Tripoli.

Russia's great counter-drive on the eastern front showed no sign of let-up, but the German high command made much of an apparent setback in the Crimea, where Feodosiya, on the southeast coast of the peninsula, was reported recaptured by a combined German-Rumanian force.

This "victory report" must have come as a surprise to the German people for the Hitler command had never officially acknowledged losing Feodosiya. The communique said 4,600 Russians were taken prisoner at Feodosiya.

But the high command also found it necessary to report at the same time that the Russians had launched heavy attacks along the entire Donets river front. The communique said that the fighting was still in progress but gave no indication of the trend.

Air Warfare.

In air warfare, the Germans claimed to have damaged several merchant ships of a British convoy in the Gulf of Sirte, following up a claim of yesterday that a British destroyer had been sunk off Salum, and said that ports of Britain's southwest coast, a munitions ship off the Shetland Islands and a merchant ship off Russia's Arctic port of Murmansk were bombed.

The London admiralty announced the sinking of the 900-ton destroyer Vimiera, without further details. This was the 58th British destroyer acknowledged lost in this war.

Russian soldiers and Nazi troops described by Russian sources as the "cream of the German forces" were reported fighting a bitter, hand-to-hand battle in the flaming streets of Mozhaisk, a German-held Russian key point 57 miles west of Moscow.

The Russian army newspaper Red Star, reporting a series of Soviet successes on the snows of the eastern front as Russia's great offensive gained stature, told of virtual no-quarter fighting in Mozhaisk.

Red Star also reported that stubborn street fighting was under way in another town—unidentified in the Moscow sector, with the Red Army taking toll of Nazi snipers.

Farthcrest Nazi Penetration.

The Mozhaisk region represents the farthest German penetration to Moscow directly from the west along the Smolensk highway which Napoleon traveled in victory and defeat in 1812. The Russians for days have been drawing closer to Mozhaisk from above and below the city, threatening to cut off the road to retreat to Smolensk, the reported city of Adolf Hitler's new headquarters.

Red Star declared the Germans had rushed troops from France to Smolensk, 170 miles west of Mozhaisk, and then sent them to the front by plane only to have them beaten back by the Russians.

The Moscow radio claimed that the Russians had driven to a point 60 miles from Smolensk but did not locate that Red spearhead.

The Soviet communique early today announced the Russian occupation of Polotnyany-Zavod, on the Moscow central front.

While the Red army was triumphing on the battlefront, it finished whipping into shape the first batch of reserves trained under the universal compulsory military service inaugurated by Joseph Stalin Oct. 1.

Thus the Russians have an enormous pool of reserves ready for the spring offensive the Germans have promised to launch in the east.

The battle of the Atlantic, a phase of the European war which has reached out toward the shores of the United States, brought over the week-end the U-boat sinking of the Standard Oil tanker Allan Jackson, the third such victim in less than a week.

Thirteen survivors of the 6,635 ton tanker's 35-man crew were landed at Norfolk, Va., yesterday afternoon; six of them were hospital cases, the others uninjured. The rescue vessel also brought in four bodies.

The public relations office of the Fifth Naval District at Norfolk announced that the Allan Jackson was en route to New York and was unarmed when she was torpedoed, but further details were withheld for reasons of security.

The first two ships in the current wave of U-boat activity along the American coast also were tankers, the first sunk last Wednesday, the second on Thursday.

The axis raiders appeared to have reached coastal waters in considerable force and their scattered assaults have touched off a great search by sea and sky, but American authorities are not likely to announce the results of the U-boat hunt until well after any successes.

That is part of the technique of striking at the morale of other axis U-boat men.

Parents Seek News Of Son in US Army Philippine Islands

Deputy Sheriff and Mrs. Sam T. Curry have not heard any word from their son, Pvt. I. N. Curry who has been in Manila, Philippines, since before hostilities began.

The help of Congressman Luther A. Johnson was enlisted by the parents. A letter was received from Congressman Johnson, dated Jan. 14, stating that he had an official of the War Department check the casualty lists of the American forces in the Pacific, and the name of Pvt. Curry was not on either the killed or wounded list.
